Hospital Board Approves Rate Increases

By ROB MECKEL Staff Writer

The Navarro County Memorial Hospital board of Managers voted during their annual budget meeting Thursday night to increase daily room and other rates at the hospital effective Jan. 1,

The 1972 proposed budget was presented to the board by hospital business manager Dick Harwell. Board member W.J. Moore moved and W.L. Bain seconded to approve the budget with rate increases as outlined. The motion passed unanimously. The change will raise private room rates from the present $38-$44 charge to rates from $41 to $47. The present semi-private room rates of $34-$36 will increase to prices ranging from $37 to $39.

The daily hospital ward rate was increased from $33 to $36; ambulatory care from $25 to $26 and nursery room from $20 to $23.

Harwell said the rate increase will bring in an estimated $136,500 increase in available revenue during 1972.

Operating room rates were also increased by the board with approval of the budget. Major procedure rates will go from $72 to $74 and minor procedure rates from $48 to $50. The increase is estimated to increase available revenue by $5,500.

Other rate increases would include: recovery room, increased from $11.25 to $12.15; delivery room, from $60 to $65; blood bank processing charge, $22.50 to $27.50; EKG, $10 to $11; and emergency room service, $5.25 to $6. The new budget also calls for five per cent increases in areas of pharmacy, central supply, and IV solutions; and a 25 per cent per treatment charge for inhalation therapy and physical therapy.

Total estimated increase in available revenue from the rate hikes, according to Harwell, is $190,000.

Harwell commented during the budget presentation that the rate increases are within the wageprice freeze guidelines set by the Nixon administration.

Prior to the vote accepting the budget, board member W.J. Moore asked hospital administrator Gene Barron how the room rates here would compare with other hospital rates in this area. Barron said the rates at Navarro County Memorial Hospital are higher than smaller hospitals and about equal in cost to the Waco hospital. Barron pointed out that the hospital here offers patients many more services than do other hospitals; One example pointed out was inhalation therapy facilities.

Salary and expense increases were also approved as part of the budget. The total amount approved for salary increases was $50,000. This amount included salary increases for department

Expense increases include: $5,000 for professional fees (this is mostly an increase of stipend to nursing students attending Navarro Junior College); additional month rate increases (needed to comply with federal minumum wage standards) was $10,000; supplies (including funds for an outside audit by Wilcox, Pattillo & Brown auditors) is $42,000; FICA expenses, $5,000; capital equipment, $18,000; and established vacant positions expected to be filled in 1972, $60,000. Total projected salary and expense increase for 1972 is Harwell explained that salary raises for hospital personnel will be based on whether or not the individual deserves a raise and will be given on the anniversary of his employment.

The statement of operations budget for fiscal year Jan. 1, 1972 to Dec. 31, 1972 shows a total of $3,135,000 as total operating revenue. This amount includes $3,016,300 as net revenue from services to patients, and $118,700 as other operating revenue.

Total operating expenses listed on the statement sheet shows a figure of $3,124,600. This amount includes $1,779,400 for salaries, $1,212,700 for supplies and other expenses, and $32,500 for commissions.

The net operating income shown in the budget is $10,400. Items not budgeted total $20,000, leaving the maintenance fund withdrawl figure at $30,400.

In other hospital board business Thursday night, the administrator's report for the month of November was approved. The November balance sheet showed total assets of $737,862.86 in the operating fund, $243,268.06 in the specific purpose fund, and $2,793,264.51 in the Plant Fund. Liabilities and capital totals balanced with assets in each of these funds.

A motion by W.G. Moore to approve bad debt write-offs totaling $7,551.37 was seconded by D.W. Springer and passed unanimously.

The board of managers also approved the establishment of a credit union for hospital employes. Barron explained that the only expense to the hospital concerning the union would be clerical time necessary for making deductions for employes and forwarding credit applications. The program will be through the Texas Hospital Association.

Barron requested that the low bids on six hospital equipment items be accepted by the board and that these bids be sent to the Navarro County Commissioners with recommendations that they be approved. The bids included $1,785.40 for a laparoscope from Terrelly Supply Co.; $4,462 for a surgical microscope from D. Mueller Company; $620.10 for a uterine aspirator from Texas Eastern Company; $69,375 for Xray equipment from Profekray; and $1,442 for a Polaroid processor from the Gilbert X-Ray; $6246.05 for a fetal monitor, Corametrics Monitoring Bain moved that Barron's request be granted. After a second by W.J. Moore, the motion passed unanmiously.

Charles Biltz, chief of staff, requested that a system be established in the hospital to calcualte the average length of stay of patients as compared with average stays of patients in other hospitals. A Utilization Review Committee, consisting of four physicians having no financial interest in the hospital, would be responsible for setting up the system. The proposal by Dr. Biltz was accepted unanmiously by the board.

Also during the meeting, Dr.

The last item of business was a request by Barron to transfer $80,000 from the Cash Fund to a special savings fund with flexibility to transfer the money back to the cash account as needed. He also requested that $20,000 be transfered from the General Fund cash account to the Medicare Savings Account. Placing the money in savings accounts until needed would allow the hospital to draw interest.

The request by Barron was approved by the board of managers.

Shoe Leather, Tire Treads Help Solve Poverty Problems

Shoe leather and tire treads are helping solve poverty problems in Navarro County. The work of a community developer with the Navarro County Action Committee forms the basis of many projects in this county designed to help people whose income sets them within poverty guidelines. The community developer works directly with these people to learn their needs and use all resources available to eliminate problems.

community developers within the NCAC framework are Mrs. Catherine Porter, Charles Edmerson, Mrs. B. J. Acock and Arthur Carroll.

Mrs. Porter, whose territory includes Blooming Grove, Frost, Pelham, Dawson and Barry, has worked with NCAC since 1966. She is a graduate of Pelham High School and has attended several workshops in preparation for the community developer position.

Her job requires a great deal of driving to her offices in neighborhood centers of the towns in her area. She works in Pelham from 1-4:30 p.m. on Mondays; Blooming Grove from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Tuesdays, Dawson from noon until 4 p.m. on Wednesdays; and Frost from noon until 3:30 p.m. on Fridays. Other work time is spent on referrals and making house-to-house contacts. The research work in these home visits helps determine the needs of individuals and the community. Referrals are made by the community developers to programs within NCAC and other agencies such as State Welfare Department, Texas Employment Commission, Salvation Army, Family Services and other programs.

"I also refer crippled children to the County Health Department," Mrs. Porter said. "Two children whom I referred to the agency now go to Dallas for treatment and one goes to a Waco hospital.

"I find that many people are qualified for social security and old-age assistance," she said, "but do not know about it or do not know how to apply for it. I sometimes take them to the agencies and help them with the applications. There are also many people who are not aware that they qualify for welfare program assistance, Veterans Administration loans and other programs. During the past fiscal year I made a total of 309 referrals."

Mrs. Porter said some people in her area who need help contact her at the office of one of the centers. Many of the emergency cases are referred to the Emergency Food and Medical or the Food Stamp programs for assistance. Sometimes she provides transportation for families to these agencies.

At the various centers, Mrs. Porter teaches and supervises various activities, including the arts and craft work like sewing, quilt-making, and upholstering. Volunteer workers lead the classes on days when Mrs. Proter is not at the center. There are about two or three volunteers at each center in her area.

"About every two months, we present a nutrition class in each center," she said. "Sometimes these workshops are in cooperation with the Navarro County Extension Service.

"At the Dawson center we have supervised youth recreation activities such as music sessions, dancing and games on Friday and Saturday nights," she said. "An aide, Mrs. Aretha Hall supervises the activities."

community The four developers pointed out that counseling is a very important part of their work. The counseling includes discussion on both community and personal problems.

"Many of the home problems I encounter involve children," Mrs. Porter said. She often counsels with teenage boys who want to quit school and get a job. If she cannot encourage them to continue their high school education, she suggests other alternatives such as General Education Development (GED) classes, Job Corps training, or vocational schools.

Helping people with housing problems is also an important function of the community developers. This assistance includes helping people to find out whether or or not they have clear title to their property to qualify for FHA or other loans for purchase of a new home or repair to an old one.

Brookshire Resigns At Navarro Savings

Lee Brookshire, executive vicepresident of Navarro Savings Association, has resigned to accept a position as legal counsel with Ft. Worth Mortgage Corp., which has recently moved its home offices to Arlington.

Brookshire, who had been president of the association here since October, 1965, until this past July when he became executive vice-president, and was succeeded in the presidency by James W. McPherson, Dallas, submitted his resignation to the board of directors Thursday night effective Jan. 14. He assumes his new duties on Jan. 17.

He is a graduate of Baylor Law School, but had not practiced law before accepting this new position. Brookshire was engaged in banking when he and his family moved here from Waco to join Navarro Savings Association.

Pargas Truck Overturns; Driver DOA at Hospital

Melvin B. Bowling, 42, Mildred, was dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital Monday following a fire and explosion of his Pargas, Inc., butane truck about two miles west of Kerens.

Corsicana firemen sent fire trucks to back up the Kerens volunteer fire department.

Traffic was reported still blocked and just being permitted around the area at noon. The explosion occurred about 10:45 a.m.

A Daily Sun photographer, Leland Deming, talked with members of a highway construction crew who reported they witnessed the mishap. Deming was advised workmen heard "a small explosion, looked up to see the driver on the hood of the truck. They said the truck bounced off the bridge railing and flipped end-over-end, through a fence into a pasture and rolled over on the driver. They (highway workmen) pulled the driver from under the vehicle and said there were several other small explosions before officers and firemen reached the scene," Deming related.

A Pargas deliverman W. R. Putman, at company offices in Corsicana said another Pargas employe, Bobby Gentry, was in a service truck following behind Bowling to assist in "setting a tank" for a customer at Cedar Creek Lake. Gentry radioed in news of the tragedy, but was too shaken to give details.

"We still don't know here what happened out there," Putman told the Daily Sun, "until Gentry comes in or investigating officers can tell us." He said the company was sending people to the scene to make an investigation into the driver's death and circumstances of the explosion.

Highway Patrolman Bill Bradley and Sheriff's Deputy Bryan Dunagan are the investigating officers who could not be reached at press time. CORSICANA WEEKLY LIGHT

Cotton Gin Murder Unsolved

By Kit Bauman "Golden Circle" Editor

FAIRFIELD—Outside the neat white-frame house the temperature was slowly dipping more baffling with the passing down into the low 20's. The weather report for Jan. 5 said that snow flurries could be expected before morning and the other 13 residents of the small bundling up for the night.

It was almost 6 p.m. and already dark, the sun having set at 5:40 p.m. Inside the house, 58year-old Clovis Hodge and his night like this.

population was 15 residents, including Hodge and his wife. In the eleven months since the murder, two residents have died and there have been no newcomers to the community.

It's accepted as fact that no stranger goes unnoticed in a small town, certainly not in a town the size of Cotton Gin. Yet no one has come forward since Sessions and Texas Ranger Jim Ray of Waco began their investigation who recalls seeing a stranger that night. The cold weather — one of the coldest days of the year in that area, overcast and windy - kept many people at home, of course, but someone must have noticed the man, the lawman insists. Apparently, the only person to have seen Clovis Hodge's killer was Mrs. Hodge.

Adding to the complexity of the case is the fact that the stranger came to the house looking for the Hodges' money, the existence of which only a handfull of people could have known about.

"I can count on the fingers of one hand the friends they had," Sessions gestures, "and none of those people are tied in with this, I'm convinced. But this guy knew about that money; that's the only reason he went there."

Sessions pauses for a moment, then continues: "I'm willing to believe the shooting was an accident or even self-defense. When we got to the house, we found everything in place, including the money. He didn't take anything, and it's too bad, really, because it might have given us something to trace — he just wanted out of there.

"When Mrs. Hodge ran out of the house, he was probably right behind her, although she never saw the man again. And that's another thing: no one out there president's award for his active saw or heard a car." Sessions leans back again and smiles. "That's why the whole thing is so incredible."

> When it became apparent after several weeks of investigation that there would be no easy solution to the murder, Sessions and Ray talked with Hodge's family and agreed that a reward might help. For the past several months, Sessions has again and tention to the fact that there is a $1,000 reward leading to the identity of the killer. A number of people have come forward with what they felt was information.

But even that proved no help after Sessions turned up evidence clearing the man. Time has slowed the frequency of calls and Murder Scene visits to his office by persons eyeing that reward and the case remains as much a puzzle as it was the night of Jan. 5th.

"Somewhere, there's someone who knows something," the sheriff says, "It might be a week or a year or even ten years, but someday there's got to be a falling-out or an argument, and then someone's going to come in that's what will happen."

I doubt very seriously if Santa Claus will find his way to my house this year. I blew it but good!

It has been a hertic week.

It started on Monday, I called Wilson Griffin who signs my pay check a PENNY PINCHER. Again? Yep. It was all his fauit that we ran out of coffee. He KNOWS I GOTTA have a cup of coffee as soon as I hit the back door.

Missed the B&PW's Annual Christmas party because I had just stepped out of the bathtub when my lights went out due to the storm Tuesday night.

Couldn't see how to dress or put on my makeup. Cussed my cat, Taurus, told him it was his fault and for goodness sake to stop that meowing that I was scared too!

Wednesday lovely Merle Coker, P & S Pharmacy, helped me select Sharon's Christmas gift. That night Pat called. That's right. He'd already bought the same item.

Thursday my faithful 'ole Ford would Gee when I wanted it to Haw. Also I missed seven appointments because I was late. But if I told you why I'd have the Chamber of Commerce, Herb Silverberg, Ned Polk, Hank Wyatt, Embrey Ferguson—well, the whole works giving me you know what.

I cussed my cat.

Friday I forgot an appointment with Mrs. Don Borsellino who has been so nice to me throughout the years I've been with the paper. By mistake a nice young man took a lay-out I'd already sold instead of the one he was supposed to take to his account. That's when I REALLY blew. Saturday? Sam the Editor, called me an "Upstart."

What's an "Upstart?" Smile. Let's forget it and read the following poem by Orin L. Crain. We published it several years ago and have been asked to repeat it as they had lost their copy. We'll read it about ten times ourselves and simmer down.

"Slow me down, Lord!

to say that this is an appropriate time and place to thank the many people throughout the Golden Circle who have helped nake news coverage an easier process. Our business manager is an unwilling party to what I have in mind because he makes out my gas allowance check, without which I would never be able to see any of these people.

Business Manager and I go send me from one extreme through an interesting little ritual that's become a looked-forwardto event around the office. For a few moments on that day, typewriters stop clacking. telephone conversations are cut short, and the coffee shop empties out for the first time all day.
